

Tony Bell

Charleston, South Carolina

Combining technical expertise with creative vision.

Tony Bell is an accomplished freelance video production professional with a diverse background spanning commercial production, documentary filmmaking, and education. His credits include co-producing the award-winning documentary A Tree Story – Gullah Geechee Roots and Resilience, featured at the Pan African Film Festival at Cannes, and serving as sound recordist for the 2023 PBS documentary After Sherman. He previously worked as a commercial producer with Charleston's local NBC affiliate and taught science and media arts at the College of Charleston and the Art Institute of Charleston. Tony also holds an advanced degree in Applied Physics. Combining technical expertise with creative vision, he brings extensive experience to every project, consistently producing compelling, high-quality content that engages audiences.

PORTFOLIO

WEBSITE